

Maria L. Britt

Commanding General | Servant Leader | Keynote Speaker | Author

What she has to offer

Maria Britt's priority has always been servant leadership—leading because you want to accomplish things for others. Whether she is speaking to empower women facing adversity in male-dominant leadership roles, giving lessons that improve organizational structure and effectiveness, or uplifting soldiers and veterans, Britt's keen understanding of impactful leadership coupled with strong empathy and intuition will inspire, motivate, and mobilize listeners.

Speaking Topics

- Strategies for women leading in male-dominant environments
- Driving change through strategic thinking and planning
- Promoting a safe zone for reporting—Safety starts at the top
- Leadership lessons that impact organizational culture and effectiveness
- Practical approaches to bouncing back and rebranding
- Transitioning from management to leadership
- Tapping into the power of knowing your inner compass

Partial Client List

- United States Military Academy, West Point N.Y.
- Home Depot Headquarters
- DCMA Lockheed Martin Marietta
- Women President's Organization (Platinum Chapter)
- Georgia Safety, Health and Environmental Conference
- Mohawk Industries
- Georgia State University
- Kennesaw State University
- University of North Georgia
- Georgia Military College

“How can anyone lead others without first knowing how to lead themselves?”

—Maria L. Britt

You can book Maria through the email below or the contact form on her website.
Major General (Retired) Maria L. Britt | mbritt2009@gmail.com | MariaLBritt.com

Testimonials

Whether you have already embraced the call to lead or you are part of the emerging generation of new leaders, Major General (retired) Maria L. Britt challenges you to step up and become a leader of character. Her interview was one of the best we have ever produced on Extreme Carolina. It received a record number of listener responses. An incredible public speaker; her fresh and engaging style shines through. She speaks with candor, commitment, courage, and caring—traits that are in short supply these days.

—Michael Levi Borkman

Producer and Host of radio show, Extreme Carolina
Newstalk 95.1

Maria was a keynote speaker at The Home Depot for a Women in Leadership development event where she spoke on “The Power of Framing Your Leadership Credo and Living It.” Maria is an authentic leader who immediately connects with others on a very personal level. She encourages other women to be true to their own strengths and to pursue their aspirations even when the hurdles seem unsurmountable. I highly recommend Maria to any organization that strives to embrace diversity, encourage growth throughout their ranks, and exceed expectations against established benchmarks. Maria does not disappoint!

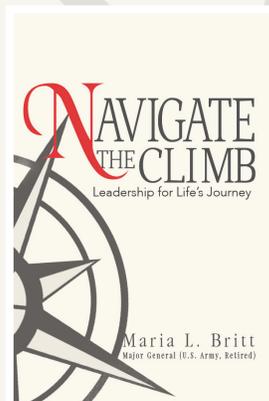

—Jennifer H. Kozel

Sr. Manager, Talent Acquisition, The Home Depot

“What’s Driving You?”

About Maria: Major General (retired) Maria L. Britt has led at various levels of command throughout her entire professional life. After graduating from one of the first West Point classes to admit women, she went on to mother three successful children, earn two master’s degrees, become the first female general in the state of Georgia, earn the Distinguished Service Medal, and be featured on the cover of Georgia Trend magazine.

NAVIGATE THE CLIMB

Maria Britt’s philosophy is that we all have a True North, or an ever-present calling that points us in the direction of our deepest goals and aspirations. Britt’s Navigate the Climb: Leadership for Life’s Journey is a crucial guide for any aspiring leader looking to confidently and courageously pursue personal and professional success in the midst of life’s many obstacles. In Navigate the Climb, readers will glean nuggets of wisdom from her experiences, including how to:

- Identify your individual purpose
- Motivate others through your vision
- Transition from management to leadership
- Brand (and rebrand) yourself
- Cope and heal after personal or professional loss

Available on Amazon,
Shop.BookLogix.com,
and MariaLBritt.com.